Semester Along the Nile: Learning in Uganda

FALL 2018 • 8/28/18 - 12/14/18

Global Resource Systems & College of Agriculture and Life Sciences Students

APPLICATION DEADLINE: 3/7/2018. Apply online at agstudyabroad.iastate.edu

PROGRAM FEE: $5,170 (Includes tuition and fees, airfare, lodging, in-country transportation, meals, and CISI insurance). Students selected for this program will receive a $2,500 scholarship to be applied toward the program fee of $5,170.

PROGRAM DIRECTORS: Dr. Gail Nonnecke (nonnecke@iastate.edu) and Catherine Swoboda (cswoboda@iastate.edu)

COURSES: Students can select from following courses based on academic needs: GLOBE 290, GLOBE 321, GLOBE 490 or 490H, GLOBE 494A, and on-line courses.

COURSE HIGHLIGHTS:

Students participating in a semester-long service-learning program in Uganda will experience a new culture while assisting in agriculture development initiatives through the Iowa State University – Uganda Program. College of Agriculture and Life Science students in sophomore or above standing are eligible to enroll in full-time coursework with potential for independent projects related to crop production, animal science, environmental science, and development. Students seeking to improve global food security will find this to be an incredible opportunity to gain hands-on skills while advancing their education. Students will return to campus for final exam week (12/10/18 – 12/14/18) to conclude the semester-long program and take final exams.