FALL 2021
3CR OPTION STUDIO

Course Description
This is an interdisciplinary service-learning course that brings together design and science students to learn from each other and produce a product for the public. Students will travel to NREM’s French Conservation Camp in western Montana. There they will meet with scientists, US Forest Service rangers to learn about natural resource issues in the region, then design and produce new interpretive signs and other visual materials to be installed at trailheads and campgrounds to educate the public.

Course format
2-week field experience
August 9-21, 2021
On campus: Once a week, 2-hour class
First half of Fall 2021 semester

Interested? Questions?
Science students contact:
Jennifer Schieltz [NREM]
jms3@iastate.edu

Design students contact:
Alex Braidwood [ArtGR]
abr@iastate.edu